
Mimi LK Tang

Page 310, 1st paragraph
In the UK, hospital admissions for anaphylaxis rose seven-fold from 50 to 360 per 100,000 population in a period of 13 years from 1990/1 to 2003/4.4 Similarly, in Australia, admissions for anaphylaxis rose from 362 to 803 per 100,000 population in 11 years from 1993/4 to 2004/5.5

Correct text highlighted in bold
In the UK, hospital admissions for anaphylaxis rose seven-fold from 0.5 to 3.6 per 100,000 population in a period of 13 years from 1990/1 to 2003/4.4 Similarly, in Australia, admissions for anaphylaxis rose from 3.62 to 8.03 per 100,000 population in 11 years from 1993/4 to 2004/5.5

---

Mimi LK Tang MBBS PhD FRACP FRCPA is at the Department of Allergy and Immunology, Royal Children’s Hospital, Melbourne, Australia; Murdoch Children’s Research Institute, Melbourne, Australia; and Department of Paediatrics, University of Melbourne, Australia.